It was a snowy day in the neighborhood, and Daniel Tiger and Dad Tiger were catching snowflakes.

"I got one!" said Daniel.

"Me too!" said Dad Tiger. "But let's go inside now. I'm cold, and Miss Elaina will be here soon to play!"

Daniel followed Dad inside.

It was time to get dressed, so Daniel went to his bedroom.

"Think about what you're going to do, and pick the clothes that are right for you," said Dad.

"I know just what to wear," said Daniel.

"Okay, I'll wear my raincoat!"

Daniel smiled.

"No." Dad chuckled. "It's not raining today. It's snowing."

"I'll wear my swimsuit!" He giggled.

"No!" Dad laughed. "It's too cold to swim today!"

"Then I'll wear my cozy red sweater," said Daniel.

"Good thinking," said Dad. "That sweater will keep you warm and toasty."

Daniel looked out the window. "Look at all the snowflakes," he said. "It looks like snow people should be living out there!"

Daniel imagined that a family of snow tigers lived in his yard.

Ding-dong! Miss Elaina was at the door.
“Hiya, toots! It’s snowing! It’s snowing!” exclaimed Miss Elaina.
“Hi, Miss Elaina,” said Daniel. “Do you want to play outside?”
“Yes!” said Miss Elaina. “And I brought our space helmets, so we can be astronauts and zoom to the moon!”
“Tigertastic!” said Daniel. “Let’s go!”

“Just a minute,” said Mom Tiger. “Think about what you’re going to do, and choose the clothes that are right for you.”

"It's cold outside," said Daniel. "So I need to wear something warm."

Daniel decided to wear his snowsuit and his boots.

"One boot, two boots," he said as he put them on his feet.

But Daniel did not want to put on his hat and mittens.

"I can't be an astronaut with a hat and mittens! I want to wear my space helmet!" said Daniel.

Mom Tiger said, "Your paws are going to get very cold."

"It's no fun to be cold, toots," said Miss Elaina. "I think I'll wear my hat."

"I won't be cold!" said Daniel.

"All right, Daniel," said Mom Tiger. "You can try it, but come back in if you get cold."

Daniel and Miss Elaina played out in the snow.
“Help me roll a snowball!” said Miss Elaina. But Daniel didn’t move.

Miss Elaina tried again. “Help me make a snow astronaut!” she exclaimed. But Daniel still didn’t move!

“Why aren’t you playing?” asked Miss Elaina.

"I'm cooooooold!" Daniel exclaimed. He ran back to the house.

When Mom opened the door, Daniel hurried inside. "Think about what you're going to do, and pick the clothes that are right for you," he said. "I am going to play in the snow, so I need my hat and mittens. The snow is cold!" He pulled on his hat and mittens.

Daniel ran back outside, warm and toasty and ready to play in the snow. He and Miss Elaina played all afternoon. They even made a snow astronaut with its very own space helmet!

I love playing in the snow, but it sure is cold! If you ever play in the snow, remember to wear your hat and mittens. Ugga Mugga!
